The 20-hour Guardianship Mediation training includes two five-hour and one six hour days of intensive mediation training focusing on multiple party, multiple issue mediations involving complex legal/medical/psycho-social/spiritual issues involving families and long unresolved interfamily issues. Completion of a 40-hour civil mediation training program is required, and 20-hour custody mediation program is recommended, before participating in the guardianship mediation training. Additionally, participants must watch the online trainings available on mdcourts.gov/guardianship. (Links will be provided after registration.) The sessions combine lecture, demonstration, and interactive role play, with coaching of individual/group exercise. A review of Maryland Guardianship law, rules and procedures will be presented.

In addition to mediation theory and process overview, principles of family and guardianship mediation, and valuable practice tips, an introduction to the following special topics will be covered:

- Standards of Practice and Ethical Considerations
- Interfamily relationship issues with changing roles within the family
- Managing Anger
- Issues of autonomy and independence versus declining health and need for a caregiver

These sessions qualify, under MD Rules of Procedure 17-104 and 17-106, for 4hours of mediation related training as required for court designated mediators of civil disputes and disputes involving child access and marital property issues.
